

Onboard safety and security must not be compromised by allowing cell phone usage during flight, particularly during emergency preparation and the communication of critical information to passengers.